Muddy Buddies

Buddy up Little Muddy Buddies and prepare to get messy! Join the Mudworks crew and explore the properties of clay. Go ahead, grab a fistful! Squash it, score it, hollow it, roll it, sculpt it! Get hands on and explore some cool techniques.

Art Explorers

Dip your brushes, pinch a little clay, get a little messy - come and play! Explore the Elements of Design with tons of art materials, cool techniques, and your imagination! This busy hands-on workshop for K - Grade 2 includes painting, drawing, clay, and printmaking stations.

Connections Through Clay

Have you ever dug just below the topsoil and found clay? Maybe you've even dug up a pottery shard that was once part of an ancient clay cooking pot or storage jar? Clay is found all over the world and is made from minerals found on the earth's crust. In this workshop experience the age-old art of pinch pots and coil pots and add embellishments for fun!

Animals in Clay

View a funny short by the Aardman Animators and watch how the sculptors manipulate the clay to bring animal characters and birds to life. Student's will shape and hollow out clay forms and properly reattach segments as they construct an animal in clay.

Clay Whistle / Ocarina

Make a musical Clay Ocarina! Belonging to Chinese and Mesoamerican cultures this wind instrument is formed by hollowing a clay ball to make a chamber. The addition of a mouthpiece, and blowhole gives your Ocarina a voice. Add more holes in the clay body to create different tones – this exciting activity takes patience and following instructions closely.

Clay Tiles: Pollinators Need You! You Need Pollinators!

One out of every three bites of food is the result of birds, bats, bees, butterflies, beetles, and other small mammals pollinating plants and sustaining our ecosystems! Draw a pollinator – monarch, bee, etc. on paper the re-create it on a clay tile by shaping and attaching clay segments. Bring your pollinator to life by adding details and pressing textured stamps into the clay.

Print it! Promote a Pollinator by Creating Prints of Pollinators to Share!

“Bee” the change you want to see in the world. Try a radical craft! Design a stamp that illustrates the importance of pollinators for our food security. Carve the lines, ink your block, and print onto cardstock. Make multiples and share the message!

Be a Botanist! Watercolour Painting

Scientists depend on artists’ drawings and paintings of plants to study growth and changes in plants, their habitats and communities and their effects on human health. The artist observes, analyzes and emphasizes the important characteristics of a plant, detailing veins, flowers, fruit and seeds. Work from examples and experiment with water washes, wet on wet, salting techniques, and wax resist.

Canadian Artist Series: Acrylic Painting

How does art enrich our lives? Analyze an artwork from TAG’s permanent collection. How do images influence our ideas and views? Students will mix the primary colours to create a colour wheel and discover how artist’s use “play” and experimentation to express feelings and ideas as they create an acrylic painting on canvas.

NOTE: Please book clay workshops well in advance and allow three weeks for kiln firing. Thick clay may explode in the kiln and pieces that are not well attached or too thin may chip/fall off.
